

2022 Promises Continued Growth and Success

Hello,

We have exciting news! We are pleased to announce that CDR has moved into a significantly larger office in the South Coast Metro area to accommodate our growing team of engineering professionals and new Dry Utility division. With a central location that is convenient to clients, partners, and vendors, as well as access to wonderful amenities, this new space will help CDR attract and retain top talent as our company continues to grow.

In order for our team to bring their 'A-game' to work for our clients and partners each and every day, we foster teamwork on and off the clock. On a recent team-building trip into the Arizona desert, CDR spent two nights in the wilderness and trekked 18 miles while carrying heavy packs over rugged terrain. With a starting elevation of 2,420', our team traversed over formidable volcanic terrain while enjoying incredible desert views, all while keeping our eyes peeled for the legendary "Lost Dutchman's gold!"

Teamwork is how we approach our partnerships as well. In our Partner Spotlight article, CDR discusses the benefits of the strategic partnership we have built with Marks Architects. As the leader of the project development team, they play a vital role in helping consultants complete tasks on schedule, which ultimately saves the client time and money. Check out the full article below to learn more about Marks Architects, and why their innovative and cost-effective designs make them "stand-outs" in their field.

Please reach out with any of your civil engineering needs.

Regards,

Aaron M. Albertson, P.E., SCDP
